Top Western Envoys Leaving Geneva Talks

America's Smith Gets Call To Return Home; So Does Britain's Eden

GENEVA (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and U.S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith will leave the Geneva conference tomorrow. There was no information as to whether either intends to return.

A U. S. announcement said Smith was flying back to Washington at the request of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles to make a personal report on the Indochina peace talks.

During Smith's absence the U.S. delegation will be headed by the American ambassador to Czechoslovakia, U. Alexis Johnson.

Informed quarters said Eden would return to London by way of Paris, where he will talk with the new French premier, Pierre Mendes-France. The British embassy in Paris announced Mendes-France has accepted an invitation to lunch with Eden.

Eden intends to take part in a foreign affairs debate beginning Wednesday in the House of Commons and then go on to Washington with Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill for talks with President Eisenhower. Lord Reading will take over as head of the British delegation.

EDEN AND SMITH conferred briefly this morning. Later Eden and Red China's Chou En-lai and Smith talked with the foreign minister of Viet Nam, Nguyen Quoc Dinh.

The two Western leaders planned to attend this afternoon's secret session of the nine-party Indochina conference, which will make an effort to see what, if anything, the Communists and West have in common on their proposals for peace in Laos and Cambodia.

The nine Indochina conference participants planned to examine various proposals already submitted by the Laotian, Cambodian and Red Chinese diplomats to see how much they have in common.

Meanwhile, representatives of Red China, the Communist-led Vietnam, Viet Nam Laos, and Cambodia scheduled another effort to continue their effort at settling the conflict.

Laos and Cambodia contend they have been invaded by foreign troops of Ho Chi Minh and call for their immediate withdrawal.

Chou En-lai declared earlier this week "foreign troops" should leave the two small kingdoms. But both Chou and Vietnamese Foreign Minister Pham Van Dong made clear this meant they wanted French troops to get out.

French-American Talks Expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top-level French-American talks on Indochina, European defense, and other critical issues appeared possible today as a follow-up to the Eisenhower-Churchill meeting opening here next week.

This prospect was brought out yesterday in a letter sent by President Eisenhower to French President Rene Coty and made public by the White House.

Eisenhower, noting he would be meeting informally with Prime Minister Churchill and British Foreign Secretary Eden the weekend of June 25, told Coty he looked forward "to resuming with the government of France such conversations as I have had in the past."

Americans Taking New Look At Premier Mendes-France

PARIS (AP)—Pierre Mendes-France came into office as premier to the great surprise of Americans here, and they don't know quite what to make of him.

Almost none of the top figures in the American embassy had ever talked seriously to him. They knew about him at second hand, as did many French and American businessmen here.

But until he actually was voted in as premier yesterday few could believe it was going to happen.

Mendes-France has been a very bright and talented young man, the kind who thinks twice as fast as an average man. Such bright minds tend to worry diplomats and businessmen.

His surprise election has called for a "reappraisal." "We may find it is a good thing, after all," one American diplomat said.

The explanation is this: Mendes-

Bloodhounds, Airplane Aid Escapee Hunt

ZANESVILLE (AP)—Aided by bloodhounds and an airplane, posse and patrol cars today continued searching the wooded hill country near here today for four armed jail breakers.

The state highway patrol said it believes the four men still were in the area and might have split up into pairs.

Residents of the area near the Roseville branch of Ohio Penitentiary on the Perry-Muskingum County line reported seeing men they thought might be members of the group that fled Roseville Wednesday.

The convicts are Charles Hanovich, 46, of Wheeling, W. Va., convicted murderer; Homer Thacker, 36, of Dayton, convicted of armed robbery; Ernest Burge, 24, of Marietta, serving a term for burglary and grand larceny; and Richard Strahm, 24, of Lima, sent up for unarmed robbery.

Officials moved to strengthen the southeastern Ohio prison.

Ohio Penitentiary Warden Ralph W. Alvis said yesterday a second fence will be built around a guard tower to keep prisoners eight feet farther away from it. M. C. Koblenz, chief of the State Division of Corrections, investigated Wednesday's break which gained four men their freedom and said "corrective steps" have been ordered.

Koblenz said a "physical weakness" had been discovered at Roseville, which houses 290 men in "maximum-medium security."

Illness Prevents HST's Guest Act

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Illness prevented Harry S. Truman from filling a guest spot in the musical show "Call Me Madam" last night but the former President was reported feeling better today.

Attending an opening night performance at Kansas City's Starlight Theater, Truman complained of feeling weak and of a sharp pain in the side. He left the theater before the end of the first act and was driven home by Mrs. Truman. Later, Mrs. Truman said her husband had suffered a severe attack of indigestion.

Rocky-Ezzard Fight Film To Be Seen Here

The wild Thursday night fight in which Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano was forced to come from behind to retain his title against Ezzard Charles will be fought all over again for local ring fans and movie patrons.

The 15-round bout, which wasn't shown on the regular TV channels, was filmed, and by special arrangements the film is being rushed to the Grand Theater in Circleville in time for a three-day showing that starts Sunday.

Marie Wilkin, local theater manager, said the fight pictures will be part of the billing for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. They were flown from New York to Dayton, and from that city the film will be brought here through Columbus.

The Grand Theater opens its doors at 1:30 p. m. Sunday and the regular billing begins to show one half hour later.

Stepdad-Slayer Gets Life Term

NEWARK (AP)—Carl Robinson, 35, listened without emotion yesterday to a jury verdict finding him guilty of first-degree murder in the slaying of his stepfather.

But his mother, Mrs. William Monroe, widow of the 68-year-old victim of a shooting last April 6, broke down and wept.

The jury recommended mercy, which means Robinson will be spared the death penalty but must go to Ohio Penitentiary for life.

Mundt Joining Dem Demand For Check On Joe's Aides

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today he would go along with a Democratic demand that the Pentagon speed answers to requests for security clearances on two Senate investigations subcommittee appointees of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Sen. McClellan of Arkansas, senior subcommittee Democrat and speaking for the three minority party members, demanded publicly yesterday that the subcommittee move fast to find out why the two have not received Defense Department security clearance to handle classified documents for which application was made more than a year ago.

"I will second it," Mundt said if McClellan will ask the Pentagon "to take up these cases and say 'yes' or 'no'" on the applications. McCarthy called the demand "dishonest and extremely dangerous to the country."

Aside from Mundt's comment, there was little sign of harmony between the Republican and Democratic members in the wake of the group's first closed-door meeting yesterday following the hearings' end Thursday. The group plans future similar get-togethers to write their report.

Mundt said he understands the two subcommittee staff members who have not been named, have not specifically been denied clearances despite a delay of 14 months in one case and 15 months in the other.

McCarthy declared he knows of no staff members "refused clearance" by the military, and knows nothing about any of them that would raise any doubts about their loyalty.

The issue cropped up late in the 36-day televised inquiry held by the investigations group into charges hurled between McCarthy and top Army officials. Questions were raised about who had access to possible secret documents in subcommittee files, and the Defense Department sent a letter to Mundt reportedly listing as "cleared" by

Crime-Buster Shot To Death In Alabama

Newly-Nominated State Attorney Predicted He Would Be Murdered

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—Crime-fighting Albert L. Patterson, Alabama's newly-nominated attorney general, was gunned to death in his car here last night just as he had predicted he might be.

The 59-year-old Democratic nominee, who was to take office Jan. 17, was shot in the mouth by an assassin who, officers said, apparently rammed a small caliber pistol between Patterson's lips and fired twice.

Early today, following an autopsy, Circuit Solicitor Arch Ferrell said Patterson had been shot three times, but he declined to tell where the third bullet struck.

State investigators and the associate state toxicologist who performed the autopsy referred all questions to Ferrell.

An associate in the anti-vice crusading Russell County Betterment Assn. blamed what he called "The Crime Syndicate" for the former state senator's death.

HE VOWED SWIFT revenge. So did Patterson's former Army major son, John, who was a member of his father's law firm.

Howard Pennington, president of the Betterment Assn., which has campaigned for years to clean up once gay and gaudy Phenix City, told reporters he had heard Patterson say only Tuesday night that "they might try to get me."

"He said 'there's nothing you can do to help me,'" Pennington recalled, "and the only thing he asked was that if they did get him he didn't want them to get by with it. And they won't."

Then only Thursday night, just 24 hours before he was slain, Patterson told a Phenix City church group that "I have only a 100-to-1 chance of ever being sworn in as attorney general."

Pennington said he will ask Gov. Gordon Persons to declare martial law in Phenix City and that his organization will demand a special grand jury and a special prosecutor. The Betterment Assn. has been deeply critical of Circuit Solicitor Arch Ferrell, who normally prosecutes on behalf of the state.

The governor ordered Maj. Gen. Walter J. Hanna, Alabama adjutant general, to Phenix City immediately with full authority to take whatever steps he considered necessary. Uniformed National Guard officers stood by.

Crime in this Southeast Alabama city across the Chattahoochee River from Columbus, Ga., long has fattened on soldiers from nearby Ft. Benning.

Dems Promise Senate Fight For New Income Tax Slash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.), said today Democrats would fight in the Senate to write new income tax cuts into a general tax revision bill that already provides $1 1/2 billion in tax relief for corporations and individuals.

The bill was headed for possible Senate debate next week after the Senate Finance Committee yesterday formally approved the 875-page House-passed measure that would overhaul the nation's tax laws for the first time in 70 years.

The Democrats on the committee had talked of trying to include new income tax reduction provisions, but they apparently made no move to do so.

However, George, the committee's senior Democrat, said Democratic strategists have settled on two alternate proposals for full Senate consideration:

1. To reduce personal income taxes $2.4 billion annually by a 100 increase in personal exemptions.
2. To give each taxpayer a $20 annual income tax credit. It was estimated this plan would mean a $1 1/4 billion annual tax cut.

CHAIRMAN Millikin (R-Colo.) of the Finance Committee would not comment on proposed amendments, but he predicted the Senate would accept the bill about as it came from his group.

French Say 5 Yanks Held By Red Rebels

SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—Authorized French military sources said today five American Air Force technicians missing since Monday have been captured by the Communist-led Vietminh.

A French command spokesman said the Americans were captured in the village of My Khe about a mile south of the beach where they had gone to swim.

The men, stationed at the French Air Force Base of Tourane 450 miles east of Saigon, were taken into the village, then marched southward by their rebel captors, the spokesman said. They were reported last seen by villagers about 10 miles south of My Khe trudging along with 20 French POWs.

The five Americans drove from the base without passes Monday in a French weapons carrier and headed for the beach. The group spent some time at the beach then headed south through a coastal area described by a U. S. spokesman as "infested with Vietminh."

U. S. Defense Department officials in Washington said last night the five included three air force and two Army men. They included Airman 3C Jerry Schuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schuller of Cleveland.

Guatemalan Rebels Drive Into Interior

Attempt To Unseat Leftist Government Brings Bloody Combat

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Two strategic Guatemalan seaports were reported in the hands of invading anti-Communist "liberation army" forces today.

Local informants of the liberation army identified the two ports as Puerto Barrios on the Caribbean and San Jose on the Pacific.

The army, under command of former Guatemalan army Lt. Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, said two inland towns also may be in control of the invaders.

These towns were identified as Zacapa, which lies near the Honduras border between Puerto Barrio and Guatemala City, and the smaller town of Retalhuleu, in the southwest corner of the country near the Mexican border.

The informants said, however, that if the Guatemalan army has sent reinforcements into San Jose and Puerto Barrios the invaders may have been pushed back from initial gains. But no setbacks thus far have been reported.

NBC CORRESPONDENT Mca Bannell reported in a Tegucigalpa broadcast heard in New York this morning that the invaders then held about a third of Guatemala. He said two planes had machine-gunned the presidential palace in the capital.

The invasion was the culmination of a long-standing effort to unseat the Communist-backed government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman.

There are reports here that Castillo Armas has been in Guatemala since the invasion began to lead his liberation army personally.

But his movements have been kept secret and his headquarters twice has postponed statements by the 40-year-old resistant leader.

The latest report of fighting inside Guatemala was at Quetzaltenango, a good-sized city about 80 miles due west of Guatemala City.

The "liberation" troops, which attacked Guatemala by land, sea and air yesterday, were reported locked in bloody combat with defending forces at four important cities. There also were reports of internal uprisings throughout the embattled country.

A Guatemalan delegate to the United Nations announced in New York last night his government had protested to the Security Council against the "criminal invasion of my country." The delegate, Eduardo Castillo Arriola, said the protest had been sent to Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of the United States, council president.

Wyoming Senator Seriously Hurt By Bullet Wound

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo) was found shot in the head in his Senate office today.

At Casualty Hospital, to which he was taken, his condition was reported "serious if not critical."

Dr. George W. Calver, the physician to Congress, authorized a statement that Hunt was found wounded and removed to the hospital. An office aide found him when he arrived at work about 9:15 a. m.

The statement said Hunt suffered a wound over the right temple from a .22 caliber rifle bullet.

"The senator was alone in his office when his condition was discovered," the statement added.

Hunt, 61, a former governor of Wyoming, was elected to the Senate in November 1948 for a term ending next Jan. 3. He announced last Tuesday that he would not be a candidate for re-election this fall because of "health conditions." He has been undergoing treatment at the naval medical center in nearby Bethesda, Md.

Cement Finisher Strike End Urged

WAVERLY (AP)—Some 350 striking cement finishers have been urged to follow the example set by carpenters yesterday and return to work today at the nearby Atomic Energy Commission project.

Albert Craver, cement finishers union business agent, yesterday urged the strikers to get back on the job. It was believed the unions want to avail themselves of mediation by the AEC's labor-management panel in Washington. The panel will not review a dispute unless the workers are on the job.

The cement finishers and some 1,300 carpenters walked out June 10, demanding higher pay from the prime contractor.

A French command spokesman said the Americans were captured in the village of My Khe about a mile south of the beach where they had gone to swim.

The men, stationed at the French Air Force Base of Tourane 450 miles east of Saigon, were taken into the village, then marched southward by their rebel captors, the spokesman said. They were reported last seen by villagers about 10 miles south of My Khe trudging along with 20 French POWs.

The five Americans drove from the base without passes Monday in a French weapons carrier and headed for the beach. The group spent some time at the beach then headed south through a coastal area described by a U. S. spokesman as "infested with Vietminh."

U. S. Defense Department officials in Washington said last night the five included three air force and two Army men. They included Airman 3C Jerry Schuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schuller of Cleveland.

Guatemalan Rebels Drive Into Interior

Attempt To Unseat Leftist Government Brings Bloody Combat

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Two strategic Guatemalan seaports were reported in the hands of invading anti-Communist "liberation army" forces today.

Local informants of the liberation army identified the two ports as Puerto Barrios on the Caribbean and San Jose on the Pacific.

The army, under command of former Guatemalan army Lt. Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, said two inland towns also may be in control of the invaders.

These towns were identified as Zacapa, which lies near the Honduras border between Puerto Barrios and Guatemala City, and the smaller town of Retalhuleu, in the southwest corner of the country near the Mexican border.

The informants said, however, that if the Guatemalan army has sent reinforcements into San Jose and Puerto Barrios the invaders may have been pushed back from initial gains. But no setbacks thus far have been reported.

NBC CORRESPONDENT Mca Bannell reported in a Tegucigalpa broadcast heard in New York this morning that the invaders then held about a third of Guatemala. He said two planes had machine-gunned the presidential palace in the capital.

The invasion was the culmination of a long-standing effort to unseat the Communist-backed government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman.

There are reports here that Castillo Armas has been in Guatemala since the invasion began to lead his liberation army personally.

But his movements have been kept secret and his headquarters twice has postponed statements by the 40-year-old resistant leader.

The latest report of fighting inside Guatemala was at Quetzaltenango, a good-sized city about 80 miles due west of Guatemala City.

The "liberation" troops, which attacked Guatemala by land, sea and air yesterday, were reported locked in bloody combat with defending forces at four important cities. There also were reports of internal uprisings throughout the embattled country.

A Guatemalan delegate to the United Nations announced in New York last night his government had protested to the Security Council against the "criminal invasion of my country." The delegate, Eduardo Castillo Arriola, said the protest had been sent to Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of the United States, council president.

Wyoming Senator Seriously Hurt By Bullet Wound

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo) was found shot in the head in his Senate office today.

At Casualty Hospital, to which he was taken, his condition was reported "serious if not critical." Dr. George W. Calver, the physician to Congress, authorized a statement that Hunt was found wounded and removed to the hospital. An office aide found him when he arrived at work about 9:15 a. m.

The statement said Hunt suffered a wound over the right temple from a .22 caliber rifle bullet.

"The senator was alone in his office when his condition was discovered," the statement added.

Hunt, 61, a former governor of Wyoming, was elected to the Senate in November 1948 for a term ending next Jan. 3. He announced last Tuesday that he would not be a candidate for re-election this fall because of "health conditions." He has been undergoing treatment at the naval medical center in nearby Bethesda, Md.

CLEVELAND (AP)—A house on East 107th St., recently purchased by a Negro family, was spattered with gray paint by vandals last night. The house was vacant.

The former owners sold and moved out six weeks ago. It was the sixth case of vandalism against Negro owned homes in the area in the last three weeks.

Cement Finisher Strike End Urged

WAVERLY (AP)—Some 350 striking cement finishers have been urged to follow the example set by carpenters yesterday and return to work today at the nearby Atomic Energy Commission project.

Albert Craver, cement finishers union business agent, yesterday urged the strikers to get back on the job. It was believed the unions want to avail themselves of mediation by the AEC's labor-management panel in Washington. The panel will not review a dispute unless the workers are on the job.

The cement finishers and some 1,300 carpenters walked out June 10, demanding higher pay from the prime contractor.

Television viewers in Pickaway County will have a good opportunity next Tuesday to learn much about "Mylar", the plastic-like film to be produced at the multi-million dollar Du Pont plant near Circleville.

And the program for this region will be telecast next Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. over Station WTVU, on Channel 6 from Columbus.

"Mylar" is a new Du Pont product, and the big Circleville plant will be the first commercial manufacturing unit. The Circleville plant is scheduled to go into operation gradually over the next several months.

Red Paper Chides Russian Banks

MOSCOW (AP)—For want of a ruble, the Soviet state savings banks have had their knuckles rapped by Izvestia.

The Soviet government's official newspaper told the story of a schoolboy who had four rubles, a dollar at the official exchange rate. He wanted to open a savings account so some day he could buy a home aquarium.

No thanks, said the bank. Minimum deposit, five rubles.

The kid blew his four rubles on ice cream.

Bank workers, Izvestia grumbled "are too used to dealing with big depositors." The paper added: "The state savings banks must attract small deposits and learn themselves to count not only in tens of rubles but also in kopech (4-cent) coins. It is necessary to raise up children in the spirit of thrift."

First EUB Church Special Message For Father's Day

"Lord of All" an organ prelude by Mrs. Verneal Thomas, introduces the unified worship, Sunday at 9:30 a. m. in First Evangelical United Brethren Church. Other organ numbers are "Summer Mood" and "Poco Malstrore."

The congregation sings the hymns, "Faith of our Fathers" and "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms." The Fidelis Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Betty Betts, sings the anthem, "I Talked With Jesus Today!"

Referring to the special Father's Day message, "The Godly Father," the Rev. Carl L. Wilson comments: "In Psalm 1 there is a directive of a Godly Father. The picture of the good man as a tree not alone reminds one of the secret of his goodness, it hints at other characteristics of his as well. Wherever you meet a good man whose goodness is nurtured by his faith in God, you will find he has at least three godly qualities."

"First, firmness. . . . He shall be like a tree planted." Planted—what a suggestion of strength. One can picture the roots of the tree as they strike deeper and deeper and stretch ever wider and wider. In this connection we can think of godly fathers who take their stand on the side of right and refuse to be moved. They cannot be blown by the wind of expediency. When one thinks of them they think only of 'strength of character' and firmness in the Lord.

"Second, fruitfulness. . . . He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of waters, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season." Sometimes fruitfulness have a disappointing year. Trees which one year bear little or none. There are people who resemble such trees. They have great gifts of mind and body and, in addition fortune is kind to them. They have their full share of prosperity. But when judgment from a more discerning standpoint, they must be classed among the world's failures. Those whose goodness is rooted in their 'delight in the law of the Lord,' and the world is more wholesome for their presence in it, are the godly because they bring forth spiritual fruits that count.

"Third, freshness. . . . His leaf shall not wither." The picture is of the godly father who like the tree whose leaves remain green not only through certain seasons of life's experiences but throughout the whole life of the tree. His life is 'harnessed consistently to great, serious, high and noble purposes.' Such a father is one whose leaf does not wither. On the contrary he keeps in age the freshness and the zest of youth, and finds life more and more meaningful and increasingly blessed as time comes and goes.

"The secret of the godly father is to delight in the law of the Lord and to live in that law day and night."

Church school classes study the Bible lesson, "Hosea Pleads With Israel."

As a feature of the morning worship, the Kappa Beta class recognizes each father with a gift: the home builders class and the youth fellowship presents the oldest and youngest father with a gift and the 'Most Representative Church Father' as selected by the youth department will receive the pastor-wife award.

People not attending church elsewhere are invited to worship with First Church for the Father's Day service.

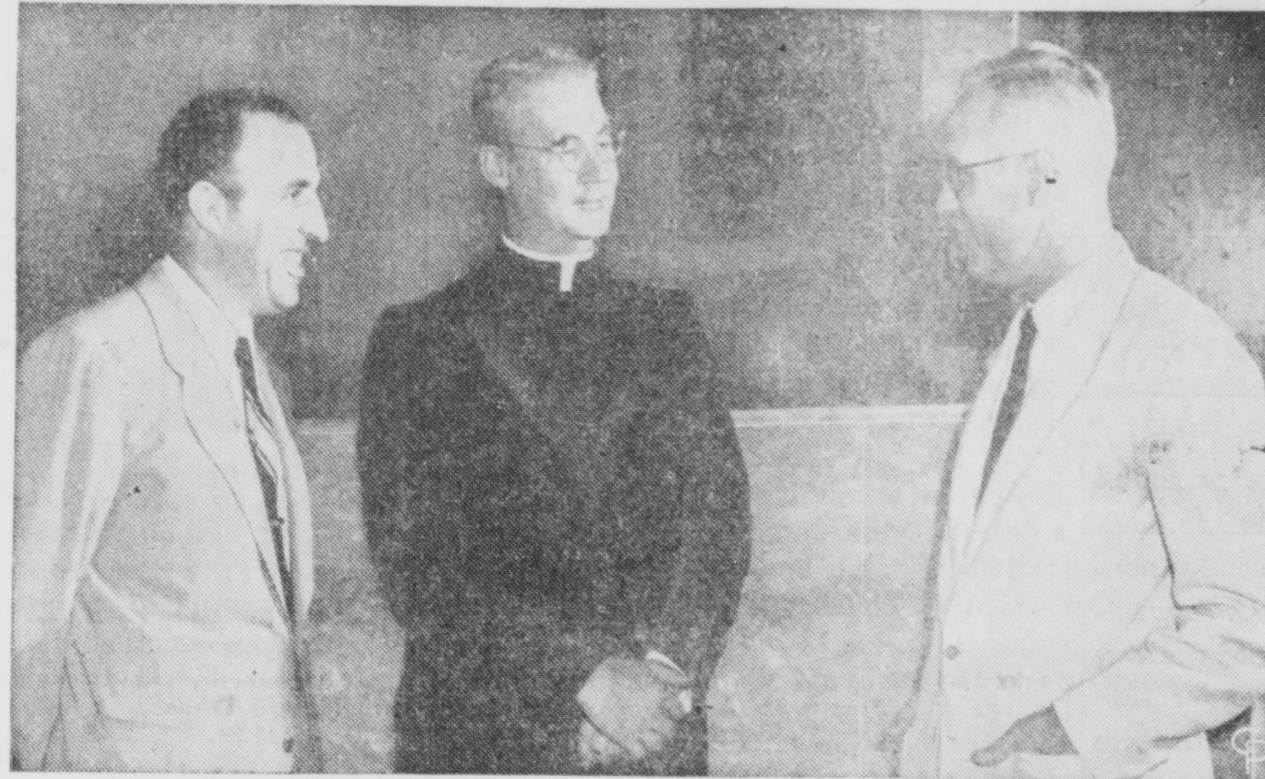

Special Program Will Honor 'Dads' For Calvary EUB

The unified service of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren will begin Sunday at 9 a. m. The Rev. James B. Recob will speak on the topic, "I Believe in the forgiveness of Sins."

A special Father's Day program will be presented during the worship hour by the Trailmakers Class of the Sunday church school.

Class sessions will be conducted for persons of all age groups in the Sunday church school following the worship hour.

PASTOR, PRIEST, RABBI AID IN HEALING ILL AT WORLD'S LARGEST MEDICAL CENTER

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A pastor, a priest and a rabbi are aiding physicians at the world's largest medical research center to heal the sick. Thus, something new has been added to the field of medicine at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., a suburb of Washington.

Here, in the Clinical Center, three representatives of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths are serving as chaplains in a new approach to an age-old problem—the mending of men's minds and bodies.

Can the doctor of divinity aid the doctor of medicine in healing men's bodies as well as their souls? Those who have embarked upon this new project do not know, but they believe it is worth trying.

It is peculiarly fitting that the union of religion and medicine at a hospital should have its inception at the National Institutes. Here, world-renowned experts are attempting, with the financial backing of the United States government, to solve some of mankind's greatest ills—polio, heart disease, insanity, to name but a few. Research is the keynote at all times and innovations are commonplace.

THE THREE chaplains work closely with the doctors, nurses and psychiatrists at the Clinic center, the 500-bed hospital and research laboratory which opened last April. Most of the patients at the center suffer from long-term ailments, such as arthritis, cancer, heart disease. The chaplains help these patients to endure with patience their illnesses and smooth the path of those for whom there can be no succor.

On the 14th floor of the Clinical center is a revolving altar for use by each of the three faiths. So far, Chaplain Weeks is the only one to conduct regular Sunday services there, for most of the patients are Protestants. Later, as the hospital fills, Catholic and Jewish services will also be conducted there.

There are approximately 140 patients at the center now, about 77 per cent Protestants, 20 per cent Catholic, and 3 per cent Jewish.

Father Caulfield holds services in his Bethesda church, only a short distance from the center, for those patients able to attend. All three chaplains regularly visit patients of their faith.

RESEARCH specialists at the Clinical center are watching the experiment closely in an effort to determine whether religion can play a significant role in healing the sick.

They emphasize that this is not merely an attempt to bring to the sick the solace of religion, praise-worthy as that may be. Ecclesiastical visits to patients are an accepted practice in many hospitals. The experiment at the Clinical center goes further. It is an effort to determine whether religion can help put a patient in a frame of mind that will aid his physical recovery.

It is an attempt to find out whether religion and medicine can work together to uplift man's body as well as his soul.

Hosea Pleads With Israel

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Hosea 4:6-7:16.

Hosea spoke for Jehovah to Israel's priests: "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge; because thou hast toward you." Not only Israel, but Judah, rejected knowledge. I will also reject too, was living in sin, and Hosea said they, that thou shalt be no priest to Me."

The prophet also called upon the house of the king to repent, "for judgment is lack of knowledge; because thou hast toward you." Not only Israel, but Judah, rejected knowledge. I will also reject too, was living in sin, and Hosea said they, that thou shalt be no priest to Me."

Because of evil doing, Hosea declared the Lord has withdrawn from His people. "They shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the Lord, but they shall not find Him."

"Come, and let us return unto the Lord; for He hath torn, and He will heal us; He hath smitten, and He will bind us up," Hosea pleaded.

First EUB Church Special Message For Father's Day

"Lord of All" an organ prelude by Mrs. Verneal Thomas, introduces the unified worship, Sunday at 9:30 a. m. in First Evangelical United Brethren Church. Other organ numbers are "Summer Mood" and "Poco Maestrose."

The congregation sings the hymns, "Faith of our Fathers" and "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms." The Fidelis Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Betty Betts, sings the anthem, "I Talked With Jesus Today!"

Referring to the special Father's Day message, "The Godly Father," the Rev. Carl L. Wilson comments: "In Psalm 1 there is a directive of a Godly Father. The picture of the good man as a tree not alone reminds one of the secret of his goodness, it hints at other characteristics of his as well. Wherever you meet a good man whose goodness is nurtured by his faith in God, you will find he has at least three godly qualities.

"First, firmness. . . . He shall be like a tree planted." Planted—what a suggestion of strength. One can picture the roots of the tree as they strike deeper and deeper and stretch ever wider and wider. In this connection we can think of godly fathers who take their stand on the side of right and refuse to be moved. They cannot be blown by the wind of expediency. When one thinks of them they think only of 'strength of character' and firmness in the Lord.

"Second, fruitfulness. . . . He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of waters, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season." Sometimes fruitgrowers have a disappointing year. Trees which one year bear abundantly, the next year bear little or none. There are people who resemble such trees. They have great gifts of mind and body and, in addition fortune is kind to them. They have their full share of prosperity. But when judgment from a more discerning standpoint, they must be classed among the world's failures. Those whose goodness is rooted in their 'delight in the law of the Lord,' and the world is more wholesome for their presence in it, are the godly because they bring forth spiritual fruits that count.

"Third, freshness. . . . His leaf shall not wither." The picture is of the godly father who like the tree whose leaves remain green not only through certain seasons of life's experiences but throughout the whole life of the tree. His life is 'harnessed consistently to great, serious, high and noble purposes.' Such a father is one whose leaf does not wither. On the contrary he keeps in on the freshness and the zest of youth, and finds life more and more meaningful and increasingly blessed as time comes and goes.

"The secret of the godly father is to delight in the law of the Lord and to live in that law day and night."

Church school classes study the Bible lesson, "Hosea Pleads with Israel."

As a feature of the morning worship, the Kappa Beta class recognizes each father with a gift: the home builders class and the youth fellowship presents the oldest and youngest father with a gift and the 'Most Representative Church Father' as selected by the youth department will receive the pastor-wife award.

People not attending church elsewhere are invited to worship with First Church for the Father's Day service.

Special Program Will Honor 'Dads' For Calvary EUB

The unified service of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren will begin Sunday at 9 a. m. The Rev. James B. Recob will speak on the topic, "I Believe in the forgiveness of Sins."

A special Father's Day program will be presented during the worship hour by the Trailmakers Class of the Sunday church school.

Class sessions will be conducted for persons of all age groups in the Sunday church school following the worship hour.

PASTOR, PRIEST, RABBI AID IN HEALING ILL AT WORLD'S LARGEST MEDICAL CENTER

Chatting together at the National Institutes of Health are Rabbi Tzvi Porath (left), of the Montgomery county, Maryland, Jewish Center; Father James A. Caulfield (center) of St. Jane Frances de Chantal Catholic church of Bethesda, Md., and the Rev. Daniel E. Weeks of the Washington Federation of Churches.

WASHINGTON—A pastor, a priest and a rabbi are aiding physicians at the world's largest medical research center to heal the sick. Thus, something new has been added to the field of medicine at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., a suburb of Washington.

Here, in the Clinical Center, three representatives of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths are serving as chaplains in a new approach to an age-old problem—the mending of men's minds and bodies.

Can the doctor of divinity aid the doctor of medicine in healing men's bodies as well as their souls? Those who have embarked upon this new project do not know, but they believe it is worth trying.

It is peculiarly fitting that the union of religion and medicine at a hospital should have its inception at the National Institutes. Here, world-renowned experts are attempting, with the financial backing of the United States government, to solve some of mankind's greatest ills—polio, heart disease, insanity, to name but a few. Research is the keynote at all times and innovations are commonplace.

THE THREE chaplains work closely with the doctors, nurses and psychiatrists at the Clinic center, the 500-bed hospital and research laboratory which opened last April.

Most of the patients at the center suffer from long-term ailments, such as arthritis, cancer, heart disease. The chaplains help these patients to endure with patience their illnesses and smooth the path of those for whom there can be no succor.

Hosea Pleads With Israel

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Hosea 4:6-7:16.

Hosea spoke for Jehovah to Israel's priests: "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge; because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to Me."

The prophet also called upon the house of the king to repent, "for judgment is toward you." Not only Israel, but Judah, too, was living in sin, and Hosea said that Judah also would fail.

Because of evil doing, Hosea declared the Lord has withdrawn from His people. "They shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the Lord, but they shall not find Him."

"Come, and let us return unto the Lord; for He hath torn, and He will heal us; He hath smitten, and He will bind us up," Hosea pleaded.

PASSING MOOD

SECRETARY of State Dulles' offhand remark that the Chinese Communists, feeling their oats over their successes in Indo-China, could conceivably drive U. S. western defenses back to the shores of California, falls into the category of exaggeration a public official makes from time to time to dramatize grave hazards.

The peril Mr. Dulles describes is based on the pessimistic assumption that all of Uncle Sam's allies in Asia will abandon this country. Friendless, he is in effect saying, the U. S. will then consider it wiser to withdraw behind fortress America than to make a stand.

It is difficult to see, at the moment at any rate, how Asia could sink into a state so grim. England, despite its dragging of feet, has too great a stake there to permit a situation that would wreck the commonwealth. But assuming that the Allies continue to scrap and blunder into this fantastic possibility, there is still another fallacious premise that must be taken into account.

This is the assumption that all goes well in the Communist world. As to this there is no authentic information, such as the Reds obtain readily about the U. S., but there is strong reason to believe that the Chinese and Russian Reds are beset by problems on the homefront. Serious agricultural dislocations in Russia and general economic immaturity in China suggest that these two dictatorships have a problem or two to solve before they can walk off with Asia.

Mr. Dulles is entitled to his bleak moments, but there is scant reason to despair.

LAKE GENEVA UNIQUE

WHEN THE government announced plans for the construction of the Academy of the Air, sites were offered in virtually every state, and strong pressure was brought to bear by lobbies and special committees to have this or that spot chosen for the establishment. After months of surveys, the choice was narrowed to three possible locations. One of these was Lake Geneva, Wis.

Now the citizens of Lake Geneva are protesting against selection of that site for the academy and are demonstrating with picket lines and other methods. Lake Geneva has set an example, it is feared, which will not be followed by many cities.

The Northern Hemisphere is growing warmer and eventually will flip directly from mild winter to hot summer, it is predicted. But won't that be hard on spring poets?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Much is made of the superior methods of getting at subversion and espionage in Great Britain and Canada. The fact is not brought out that in those countries although a witness is warned that what he says may be used against him, he cannot plead the similar immunities to the Fifth Amendment as used in this country. The clause in the Fifth Amendment reading: "nor shall (a person) be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself," cannot be employed to safeguard a person from testifying against anyone else.

The objective in cases of subversion and espionage is not so much to punish the culprit as to discover the nature and danger of the subversion and espionage. The McCarran Immunity Bill seeks to rectify a defect in the Constitution arising from the nature of our enemy who employs subversion and infiltration as a technique of war. Under this Bill, a person could testify as to the facts concerning which he has knowledge without the peril of self-incrimination.

Under its provisions, if a witness, testifying before a Congressional committee, claimed the Fifth Amendment, he could be granted immunity, with the consent of the Attorney General or by a majority of one house of Congress.

The witness would then be directed to testify without peril to himself. This measure would aid many persons who were once involved in the Communist conspiracy but had broken with it. They usually fear that if they testify truthfully, they might incriminate themselves, particularly under the Smith Act. If a Congressional committee is more interested in a man's knowledge than in "getting" him, the McCarran Immunity Bill provides a way out of the dilemma for both the witness and the Congressional committee.

The National Lawyers Guild is opposed to the McCarran Immunity Bill. This same organization is opposed to what it calls "McCarthyism." Are we to infer that the National Lawyers Guild wishes no investigation of subversion or espionage except by such means as lead only to punishment of individuals but not to an exposure of the nature and design of the subversion and espionage which is more important?

In its circular on the subject, the Guild says:

"There is no question that Congress can offer immunity in exchange for information. But this is very different from saying that if a witness refuses to accept the offer of immunity and will not testify voluntarily, he can constitutionally be punished for such refusal."

Actually once the offer is made, in public, not as a coercive measure but by right of law, on what grounds can the witness refuse to aid the United States in discovering the nature of the subversion? The danger of self-incrimination has been removed. What then is the witness' claim to silence. It can only be that he is still within the conspiracy or that he prefers the conspiracy to the United States.

The Guild further says:

"An immunity statute makes exoneration complete—as far as Federal prosecution is concerned—and thus more attractive to the ordinary criminal who, when suspected of a crime, is primarily interested in escaping punishment for it. To such criminals the chance to testify in return for immunity might be welcomed."

Atomic Bomb Affects Growth of Young Boys

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE hydrogen bomb is making the atom bomb obsolete, yet we are just beginning to evaluate its effects on other than political and international affairs.

A study was recently conducted of the victims of the Japanese atomic bombing. It was found that there was great retardation in the physical growth of boys exposed to the radiation of the bomb.

A Survey Taken

The height, weight and bone growth of a large number of exposed children were measured in comparison with an equal group of children not exposed.

It was found that growth in the boys who were exposed was significantly less for the first few years after the bombing. As time passed, growth became normal. However, the bone development was markedly slowed up until the time of the last study of those exposed to the bombing.

Girls Unaffected

It is interesting to note that the girls were not at all set back.

The adverse effects of the bombing probably rise from a variety of factors. Probably the heat and other physical injuries that resulted from exposure to the radiation were responsible for most of the retardation in growth. Also, there was a great deal of mental injury in those children who saw this horrible form of violent death.

The amount of poverty these children experienced following the bombing may be another important factor. These studies show some of the effects of radiation injury, but much further investigation will be required to learn all the results of exposure to these rays.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX
JOAN and Todd were in Washington again. It was the second week in June and Todd was already taking his training course. In a month or two he would begin on his regular work in the same office with Tom.

Behind the young Hunters lay hurried days of activity and unbelievable good luck, for they were in the Blakeleys' apartment. They had taken over their lease and Pam and Tom had moved out into the country, to their small farm.

"When things happen to us, they certainly happen fast!" Joan said. Todd nodded across the table where they were eating breakfast in their sunny kitchen.

"Our luck has turned, I guess," he said, his gray eyes meeting hers with that warm and joyous look. Then he threw down his napkin as his glance caught the clock, and he sprang to his feet. "Golly I've got to rush or I'll miss my bus!" He stopped beside her long enough to drop a kiss on her hair. "Good-bye, honey. Take care of both of you, won't you?"

"Don't worry!" Contentment filled her. Their life—hers and Todd's together—was beginning to take shape and to hold a promise of yielding them the things they wanted from it.

She stirred her coffee idly, her mind going back over time.

Not quite a year since she had been married. Eleven months, to be exact. Eleven months crowded with adjustments, anxieties, sickness, disappointments and changes.

Eleven months of groping, of wishful thinking, of fears, of uncertainties, yet of hopes, too. Always of hopes. But now the fears and wishful thinking and uncertainties were ended and hope was being fulfilled. Now, for the first time, she felt as if she and Todd were really going to put down roots.

Looking back, the weeks seemed to have sped by.

Indeed, the year's experience was not lost. It had clarified Todd's thinking for him. It had pointed his way clearly to the path he was on now where, she was sure, he would talk without hesitation or misgiving. She remembered what her mother had said on this subject.

Joan had asked her, after the summons came from Washington, whether she felt Todd was making a mistake to give up his idea of teaching when, for so long, he had wanted it.

"No," her mother had replied without a moment's hesitation. "I never could see Todd as a teacher. He loves ideas. It was Goethe's ideas that appealed to him. It is ideas—abstractions—that he likes to deal with. Policies and plans. Not people—except as he can link them up to the policies and plans that interest him. No, he wasn't meant for a teacher. He doesn't love people enough."

"But—but he's good with them!" had been her surprised answer. "He has always been popular! He was a leader at college. And during that year in Switzerland he got along wonderfully with all kinds of people!"

"I don't mean that he can't get along with them," her mother had replied. "Todd has great tact and a great deal of personal charm—and people intrigue him. But they intrigue him as puzzles that he must study and fit together, or fit into some scheme that is a part of his life. Or else—and this chiefly, I think—as sources of personal refreshment and nourishment. He has no interest in them as vessels into which he must keep pouring himself. He has none of the desire to mould and shape and guide that a true teacher must have. He has no missionary spirit. He wants to develop Todd Hunter, not a classroom of juveniles. No, I never could see him as a teacher, and I'm glad he has freed himself."

Joan's mind moved to those first weeks of living at the manse when Todd's mother had been such a problem—a problem that she had tried to solve by herself but which, understanding it, Todd had known best how to solve. Then the hot summer of work when he, not really enthusiastic, had, with loyalty and patience, helped her in her interest in antiquities. The fall when he had so suddenly been smitten with appendicitis and money troubles had swarmed and she had realized sharply that she was not holding up her end and that she must get busy on her book. Her efforts to hold up her end by selling the chair and secretly borrowing money from her publishers, and Todd's reaction to all that. He had appreciated it, of course, but he had wanted to make clear to her that he did not want to count on her as a wage earner.

How sweet and loving Todd had been when she had told him that a baby was coming.

"Really, Joan? Are you sure?" "Yes, I'm sure."

"Have you been to a doctor?" She had nodded. "I didn't want to say anything to you until I had. I—well—I didn't want to get your hopes up for nothing."

That was exactly what he had said to her about this Washington business. Consideration—tenderness—trust and love. These were solid things on which to build a life. And she and Todd had them all. How wonderful, really, it was to be married! To grow together the way she and Todd were doing. To build together. To know that she would never have a feeling of aloneness because there were two of them. They were a staunch team who would always divide their difficulties and double their joys. If she ever lost confidence in herself, Todd gave it back to her. If she were ever frightened, Todd renewed her courage. If she grew tired or downhearted, Todd was there to sing heartwarming praises in her ear and to make cheering jokes that lifted her up. Yes, it was wonderful to be married.

The sun moved in the sky outside and a finger of it reached through the window toward Joan. She lifted her face to the warm light in smiling happiness.

It would be a Christmas baby, perhaps, she had told Todd. And with his arms around her, he had said softly, "That would be lovely, wouldn't it? If that happens and it's a boy, we'll call him Christopher. And if it's a girl, we'll call her Christine. Okay?"

Of course it was okay.

She sat on quietly there in her sparkling little kitchen until the sun moved again, catching in the bronze of her hair and turning it into a golden halo about her head.

And there we will leave Joan, happy in her memories, rich in her friendships and experiences, confident of the future in which she and Todd would, indeed, make a "bright river of beauty" of their days together.

the news

By Ray Tucker

Editor's Note: Every Saturday, Mr. Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"What chance is there," inquires Mrs. G. H. of Norfolk, Va., "for passage of the Flanders resolution for removal of Senator McCarthy as chairman of the Mundt committee? And why, as the televised hearings show, can the mere chairman of a Senate committee enjoy such one-man control? Is he untouchable?"

Answer: The system of congressional chairmanships is an inscrutable and an imponderable thing. It is difficult for the ordinary citizen to understand, and few appreciated its sinister implications until they saw and heard how it operates via television. After 30 years here as a newspaper reporter and observer, I find it difficult to understand or approve.

SACROSANCT—The chairman of a House or Senate committee is the nearest thing we have to a tyrant in the United States. He is almost sacrosanct. He may refuse to call committee meetings, if it suits his personal or political purposes.

He may refuse to hold hearings on proposed legislative measures. Even after his committee has outvoted him on a specific piece of legislation, he may put it in his pocket and not give the House or Senate membership a chance to vote on it.

It can then be dragged from his committee for a floor vote only if 218 members of the House sign a petition for such action. They rarely do. In the Senate, it takes a majority vote to get the bill out of committee.

It is seldom that a majority of committee members, or the House and Senate, will override or overrule a chairman. He is a dangerous man to antagonize. He can, and frequently does, do important favors for needy members. He can make or break younger members by the way he handles measures which may mean their defeat or their reelection.

HOPES—The reason why members do not defy or dethrone a chairman is that every senator or representative hopes to become a chairman some day through the operation of the seniority system. He also hopes to enjoy the power which a chairman possesses, since he has seen as an apprentice how important it can be. Thus, he has a vested interest in this sort of feudal chairmanship system.

There is a more practical reason why committee chairmen enjoy this exalted status. As a rule, he works on the job, and comes to know the problems assigned to his charge—taxes, tariffs, agriculture, labor, rivers and harbors, national defense, etc.—in more detail than the members on his committee. He becomes a specialist while they are legislative dilettantes.

BURDEN—Busy with other affairs, his colleagues are quite willing to permit him to do the hard, dirty and laborious work. This has been especially true with respect to McCarthy's investigation of alleged Communist infiltration of the government. He held the criticized one-man hearings because the other members were too occupied or too disinterested to attend. As he says, it is "my" committee, "my" staff, "my" crusade and "my" files.

Thus, although many senators agree with Senator Flanders that McCarthy should be called to account for his questionable and condemned financial deals, the Vermont senator's resolution is scheduled for the political pigeon-hole.

ATTITUDE—"Will you tell me," asks Mrs. T. K. of Springfield, Mass., "why Senator McCarthy is permitted to describe Senator Flanders as 'senile' and Senator Symington as 'Sanctimonious Stu.' Isn't that what you might call highly unparliamentary language?"

Answer: The only explanation is that Chairman Karl E. Mundt, besides being a personal and political crony of McCarthy, is an amateur in parliamentary law. If McCarthy used such improper language on the Senate floor, he would be forced to take his seat and his remarks would be stricken from the Record.

The same rules govern committee hearings. But for the reasons I give, Chairman Mundt does not see fit to apply them. He is pro-McCarthy, and he believes that South Dakota voters are. After all, politicians must eat, and Mundt is up for reelection next November.

PASSING MOOD

SECRETARY of State Dulles' offhand remark that the Chinese Communists, feeling their oats over their successes in Indochina, could conceivably drive U. S. western defenses back to the shores of California, falls into the category of exaggeration a public official makes from time to time to dramatize grave hazards.

The peril Mr. Dulles describes is based on the pessimistic assumption that all of Uncle Sam's allies in Asia will abandon this country. Friendless, he is in effect saying, the U. S. will then consider it wiser to withdraw behind fortress America than to make a stand.

It is difficult to see, at the moment at any rate, how Asia could sink into a state so grim. England, despite its dragging of feet, has too great a stake there to permit a situation that would wreck the commonwealth. But assuming that the Allies continue to scrap and blunder into this fantastic possibility, there is still another fallacious premise that must be taken into account.

This is the assumption that all goes well in the Communist world. As to this there is no authentic information, such as the Reds obtain readily about the U. S., but there is strong reason to believe that the Chinese and Russian Reds are beset by problems on the homefront. Serious agricultural dislocations in Russia and general economic immaturity in China suggest that these two dictatorships have a problem or two to solve before they can walk off with Asia.

Mr. Dulles is entitled to his bleak moments, but there is scant reason to despair.

LAKE GENEVA UNIQUE

WHEN THE government announced plans for the construction of the Academy of the Air, sites were offered in virtually every state, and strong pressure was brought to bear by lobbies and special committees to have this or that spot chosen for the establishment. After months of surveys, the choice was narrowed to three possible locations. One of these was Lake Geneva, Wis.

Now the citizens of Lake Geneva are protesting against selection of that site for the academy and are demonstrating with picket lines and other methods. Lake Geneva has set an example, it is feared, which will not be followed by many cities.

The Northern Hemisphere is growing warmer and eventually will flip directly from mild winter to hot summer, it is predicted. But won't that be hard on spring poets?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Much is made of the superior methods of getting at subversion and espionage in Great Britain and Canada. The fact is not brought out that in those countries although a witness is warned that what he says may be used against him, he cannot plead the similar immunities to the Fifth Amendment as used in this country. The clause in the Fifth Amendment reading: "nor shall (a person) be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself," cannot be employed to safeguard a person from testifying against anyone else.

The objective in cases of subversion and espionage is not so much to punish the culprit as to discover the nature and danger of the subversion and espionage. The McCarran Immunity Bill seeks to rectify a defect in the Constitution arising from the nature of our enemy who employs subversion and infiltration as a technique of war. Under this Bill, a person could testify as to the facts concerning which he has knowledge without the peril of self-incrimination.

Under its provisions, if a witness, testifying before a Congressional committee, claimed the Fifth Amendment, he could be granted immunity, with the consent of the Attorney General or by a majority of one house of Congress.

The witness would then be directed to testify without peril to himself. This measure would aid many persons who were once involved in the Communist conspiracy but had broken with it. They usually fear that if they testify truthfully, they might incriminate themselves, particularly under the Smith Act. If a Congressional committee is more interested in a man's knowledge than in "getting" him, the McCarran Immunity Bill provides a way out of the dilemma for both the witness and the Congressional committee.

The National Lawyers Guild is opposed to the McCarran Immunity Bill. This same organization is opposed to what it calls "McCarthyism." Are we to infer that the National Lawyers Guild wishes no investigation of subversion or espionage except by such means as lead only to punishment of individuals but not to an exposure of the nature and design of the subversion and espionage which is more important?

In its circular on the subject, the Guild says:

"There is no question that Congress can offer immunity in exchange for information. But this is very different from saying that if a witness refuses to accept the offer of immunity and will not testify voluntarily, he can constitutionally be punished for such refusal."

Actually once the offer is made, in public, not as a coercive measure but by right of law, on what grounds can the witness refuse to aid the United States in discovering the nature of the subversion? The danger of self-incrimination has been removed. What then is the witness' claim to silence. It can only be that he is still within the conspiracy or that he prefers the conspiracy to the United States.

The Guild further says:

"An immunity statute makes exoneration complete—as far as Federal prosecution is concerned—and thus more attractive to the ordinary criminal who, when suspected of a crime, is primarily interested in escaping punishment for it. To such criminals the chance to testify in return for immunity might be welcomed."

Atomic Bomb Affects Growth of Young Boys

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE hydrogen bomb is making the atom bomb obsolete, yet we are just beginning to evaluate its effects on other than political and international affairs.

A study was recently conducted of the victims of the Japanese atomic bombing. It was found that there was great retardation in the physical growth of boys exposed to the radiation of the bomb.

A Survey Taken

The height, weight and bone growth of a large number of exposed children were measured in comparison with an equal group of children not exposed.

It was found that growth in the boys who were exposed was significantly less for the first few years after the bombing. As time passed, growth became normal. However, the bone development was markedly slowed up until the time of the last study of those exposed to the bombing.

Girls Undeveloped

It is interesting to note that the girls were not at all set back.

The adverse effects of the bombing probably rise from a variety of factors. Probably the heat and other physical injuries that resulted from exposure to the radiation were responsible for most of the retardation in growth. Also, there was a great deal of mental injury in those children who saw this horrible form of violent death.

The amount of poverty these children experienced following the bombing may be another important factor. These studies show some of the effects of radiation injury, but much further investigation will be required to learn all the results of exposure to these rays.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX
JOAN and Todd were in Washington again. It was the second week in June and Todd was already taking his training course. In a month or two he would begin on his regular work in the same office with Tom.

Behind the young Hunters lay hurried days of activity and unbelievable good luck, for they were in the Blakeleys' apartment. They had taken over their lease and Pam and Tom had moved out into the country, to their small farm.

"When things happen to us, they certainly happen fast!" Joan said. Todd nodded across the table where they were eating breakfast in their sunny kitchen.

"Our luck has turned, I guess," he said, his gray eyes meeting hers with that warm and joyous look. Then he threw down his napkin as his glance caught the clock, and he sprang to his feet. "Golly I've got to rush or I'll miss my bus!"

He stopped beside her long enough to drop a kiss on her hair. "Good-bye, honey. Take care of both of you, won't you?" "Don't worry!"

Contentment filled her. Their life—hers and Todd's together—was beginning to take shape and to hold a promise of yielding them the things they wanted from it.

She stirred her coffee idly, her mind going back over time. Not quite a year since she had been married. Eleven months, to be exact. Eleven months crowded with adjustments, anxieties, sickness, disappointments and changes. Eleven months of groping, you might say. Eleven months of wishful thinking, of fears, of uncertainties, yet of hopes, too. Always of hopes. But now the fears and wishful thinking and uncertainties were ended and hope was being fulfilled. Now, for the first time, she felt as if she and Todd were really going to put down roots.

Looking back, the weeks seemed to have sped by. Indeed, the year's experience was not lost. It had clarified Todd's thinking for him. It had pointed his way clearly to the path he was on now, and she was sure, he would talk without hesitation or misgiving. She remembered what her mother had said on this subject.

Joan had asked her, after the Copyright, 1952, by Alice Ross Colver. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

summons came from Washington, whether she felt Todd was making a mistake to give up his idea of teaching when, for so long, he had wanted it.

"No," her mother had replied without a moment's hesitation. "I never could see Todd as a teacher. He loves ideas. It was Goethe's ideas that appealed to him. It is ideas—abstractions—that he likes to deal with. Policies and plans. Not people—except as he can link them up to the policies and plans that interest him. No, he wasn't meant for a teacher. He doesn't love people enough."

"But—but he's good with them!" had been her surprised answer. "He has always been popular! He was a leader at college. And during that year in Switzerland he got along wonderfully with all kinds of people!"

"I don't mean that he can't get along with them," her mother had replied. "Todd has great tact and a great deal of personal charm—and people intrigue him. But they intrigue him as puzzles that he must study and fit together, or fit into some scheme that is a pet project of his. Or else—and this chiefly, I think—as sources of personal refreshment and nourishment. He has no interest in them as vessels into which he must keep pouring himself. He has none of the desire to mould and shape and guide that a true teacher must have. He has no missionary spirit. He wants to develop Todd Hunter, not a classroom of juveniles. No, I never could see him as a teacher, and I'm glad he has freed himself."

Joan's mind moved to those first weeks of living at the manse when Todd's mother had been such a problem—a problem that she had tried to solve by herself but which, understanding it, Todd had known best how to solve. Then the hot summer of work when he, not really enthusiastic, had, with loyalty and patience, helped her in her interest in antiques. The fall when he had so suddenly been smitten with appendicitis and money troubles had swarmed and she had realized sharply that she was not holding up her end and that she must get busy on her book. Her efforts to hold up her end by selling the chair and secretly borrowing money from her publishers, and Todd's reaction to all that. He had appreciated it, of course, but he had wanted to make clear to her that he did not want to count on her as a wage earner.

How sweet and tender Todd had been when she had told him that a baby was coming.

"Really, Joan? Are you sure?" "Yes, I'm sure."

"Have you been to a doctor?" She had nodded. "I didn't want to say anything to you until I had. I—well—I didn't want to get your hopes up for nothing."

That was exactly what he had said to her about this Washington business. Consideration—tenderness—trust and love. These were solid things on which to build a life. And she and Todd had them all. If she grew tired or downhearted, Todd was there to sing heartwarming praises in her ear and to make cheering jokes that lifted her up. Yes, it was wonderful to be married.

The sun moved in the sky outside and a finger of it reached through the window toward Joan. She lifted her face to the warm light in smiling happiness. It would be a Christmas baby, perhaps, she had told Todd. And with his arms around her, he had said softly, "That would be lovely, wouldn't it? Of course it was okay. She sat on quietly there in her sparkling little kitchen until the sun moved again, catching in the bronze of her hair and turning it into a golden halo about her head.

And there she would leave Joan, happy in her memories, rich in her friendships and experiences, confident of the future in which she and Todd would, indeed, make a "bright river of beauty" of their days together.

Don Smith Sparks Jackson In Victory Over Walnut, 10-3

Don Smith of Jackson Township starred as the mean man in the clutch Friday twilight when the Jacks defeated Walnut, 10-3, on a mud-spotted diamond at Ted Lewis Park. It was first extra-inning game of the 1954 County League season, going for eight frames before the Jackson boys blew off the lid with a seven-run outburst.

Smith kept his team alongside the hard-working Walnut crew for the regular seven innings, blasting out a homer in the fourth and making the circuit again in the sixth when his sizzling single got through the center-fielder while a runner waited on the sacks.

After scoring once in the second, Walnut tallied twice in the bottom of the seventh and sent the 3-3 fray into one extra stanza under the field lights, a concession for twilight games ending in a tie.

In addition to his work with the stick, Smith took over the hurling duties for Jackson in the last of the seventh. His wild heave to first helped the opposition tie the figures just in time, but he showed top form in winding up the contest when Walnut came up for one last try in the last of the eighth.

SMITH'S WORK predominated, but several others also rated a share of the plaudits as the two teams staged a close hurling battle through the regular stretch. Dewey, on the mound for Walnut, and Eddie Longberry, hurling for Jackson, put up a pitching duel that made it plenty worthwhile for the thin crowd of fans sprinkled around the edges.

Both teams showed increased strength since their first tests of the season. Jackson had been nosed out by GE in the County League opener, and Walnut took a beating from the Ashville Irwins before the Paul Thomas gang tangled Friday night with Jackson. The improved form of the Jackson and Walnut outfits gave new assurance of a wild tussle all along the line before the county loop honors are settled.

The clubs played fairly s t e d y ball behind effective pitching up until the closing innings, with the edge in favor of Longberry who held a special place on the losers. Jackson gathered nine hits off a trio of pitchers, Bob Smith and Van Pelt both trying to come to Dewey's rescue in the explosive eighth. Walnut registered five hits off Longberry and Don Smith, the latter being nipped for a terrific but futile triple by Bob Smith in the last of the eighth.

Walnut opened the night's scoring with one run in the last of the second after three Jackson bingles had gone to waste—singles by Galloway, Don Smith and Hutchinson. And Bob Smith tallied on a passed ball a few minutes later.

DON SMITH'S blistering four-base blow with the sacks empty, a cloud that went over the right-fielder's head, made it one-all for Jackson in the top of the fourth. And then, in the sixth Jackson moved ahead with two more runs this-away.

Maughmer struck out and Hatfield was out, third to first. But Galloway walked and Don Smith ripped a single into center, and it kept on going until both runs were across. Longberry held the Walnut boys in firm check in the bottom of the sixth, whiffing Bob Smith and Rugue and forcing Bill Smith to lift out to left-field. But when they came up in the last of the seventh, the Thomas men nearly grabbed the victory with a belated rally.

Nance walked and stole second. After Jackson held a mid-field huddle on strategy, Hurley singled along the left-field foul line, scoring Nance and sending Hurley to second on the throw-in. At that stage, Don Smith took over the pitching job and Longberry went to short.</

Summer Park Program Gets Good Beginning

The Kiwanis summer recreation program got off to a good start this week, with an average daily attendance at the park of 75. The announcement came from director Dick Boyd.

Highlight of the first week was a checker tournament, with ice cream prizes donated by Paul's Dairy Store, going to Danny Ferguson, the boys' winner, and Carole Bass, the champ of the girls' division.

Another Friday feature was a candy hunt, in which over 100 candy kisses were scattered about the park. At a set time, the youngsters were released to go find as many of the pieces of candy as they could.

Next week, several new features will be added. On Wednesday, finger painting, directed by Theresa Hill, will be featured in the afternoon.

On Thursday a story hour for the many younger children who attend the park program will be held at 2:30 p. m. Also on Thursday, model building will be started for those who are attending the program regularly.

The tournament next week will be in croquet golf. Four divisions have been set for boys and girls, young and old, so that a child of any age will have a chance.

From time to time, many new features will be added to provide for a varied recreational program.

Bill Fischer, Notre Dame line coach, was a teammate of a head football coach Terry Brennan for four years, 1945-48. Fischer was captain of the 1948 team.

Summer Park Program Gets Good Beginning

The Kiwanis summer recreation program got off to a good start this week, with an average daily attendance at the park of 75. The announcement came from director Dick Boyd.

Highlight of the first week was a checker tournament, with ice cream prizes donated by Paul's Dairy Store, going to Danny Ferguson, the boys' winner, and Carole Bass, the champ of the girls' division.

Another Friday feature was a candy hunt, in which over 100 candy kisses were scattered about the park. At a set time, the youngsters were released to go find as many of the pieces of candy as they could.

Next week, several new features will be added. On Wednesday, finger painting, directed by Theresa Hill, will be featured in the afternoon.

On Thursday a story hour for the many younger children who attend the park program will be held at 2:30 p. m. Also on Thursday, model building will be started for those who are attending the program regularly.

The tournament next week will be in croquet golf. Four divisions have been set for boys and girls, young and old, so that a child of any age will have a chance.

From time to time, many new features will be added to provide for a varied recreational program.

Bill Fischer, Notre Dame line coach, was a teammate of a head football coach Terry Brennan for four years, 1945-48. Fischer was captain of the 1948 team.

Gene Littler On Brink Of Golfing Fame

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP)—Not since Bobby Jones' "grand slam" year of 1930 has one player been able to win both the open and amateur golf championships of the United States within the span of less than a year.

Gene Littler could be the next one to do it and today will tell whether the Californian has the stuff that makes a Jones, or a Ben Hogan, or whether he's just another promising young golfer.

Littler won the amateur title at Oklahoma City last September. Now he's showing the way in the 72-hole open championship at the halfway point with a 70-69-139.

He's up against the long, cruel Baltusrol course that has virtually defied the efforts of the world's best golfers to shatter par for two days.

And today he'll learn what pressure is like—the pressure of playing for $6,000 prize money and a title that is worth infinitely more.

Going in today's final 36 holes, with just 50 players left out of nearly 2,000 who originally entered and 162 who started play here Thursday, Littler had a two-stroke margin over defending champion Ben Hogan and lame-armed Ed Furgol, tied at 141. Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff, Dick Mayer and Al Mengert were four strokes behind at 143.

Bobby Locke, Tommy Bolt, Bob Toski and Dick Chapman, who shot the lowest 18-hole score of the tournament, had 144s. Sam Snead and Billy Joe Patton had 145s.

Hog Raisers Warned To Check Breeding Stock Purchases

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office, located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here, headed by County Agent Larry Best, is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Midwestern hog raisers are urged to check their purchases of breeding stock carefully this summer to avoid "buying" an outbreak of a serious swine disease, atrophic rhinitis.

The American Foundation for Animal Health said a serious feature of the disease is the fact that a "carrier" animal may not show any symptoms. Thus an apparently healthy animal imported to another farm may establish the disease in a new area.

Atrophic rhinitis is an infection that affects the hog's snout. Symptoms may include sneezing, nose-bleed, and constant rubbing or disfigurement of the snout. A careful diagnosis may be needed to distinguish the disease from "bull-nose".

Since no effective treatment has been found for the condition, the only way to control losses is through prevention. Foundation officials said. In order to keep herds free of atrophic rhinitis, the Foundation advised farmers to check carefully into the history of the herd from which any breeding stock is bought.

The Foundation pointed out that elimination of the disease is difficult once it gains a foothold. Infected litters should be isolated and sows and litters that do not show rhinitis symptoms should be raised on clean ground.

"If possible, all swine should be sold for slaughter and the premises cleaned and disinfected before buying new swine," officials said.

The educational work for developing the meat-type swine program in Ohio will be under leadership of Wilbur Bruner after July 1. Subject to approval of the University trustees, Bruner is to join the department of animal science as Extension specialist with a joint appointment in the department of agricultural economics.

He will supervise the swine feeding station, now under contract for completion on the University farm by September 30. Breed associations, marketing agencies, the Extension Service and Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station are cooperating in the tests to be made at the swine feeding station.

Prior to becoming market specialist in the department of agricultural economics in 1949, Bruner served Preble County as extension agent for 11 years, and had been a vocational agricultural teacher, farmer and farm manager. He also served the Ohio Wool Growers Cooperative association as secretary.

A silo gas victim walked into J. D. Bickie's office recently to learn what had caused his attack and how to prevent it in the future. Bickie, Ohio State University extension agricultural engineer, said carbon dioxide gas forms in all silos shortly after filling begins and continues until all fermentation stops. The gas, being heavier than air, collects and remains in a depression or closed space where there is not a strong, free movement of air.

The man who came into Bickie's office was climbing the silo chute two days after the silo had been filled. The silo doors were in place to the top of the chute and the silo was roofed. Silage had settled four or five doors after the original filling.

The space between the settled silage and top door of the chute had filled with carbon dioxide and other gases. When he was near the top of the chute the blower was started, forcing the gas out of the silo and down the chute. The man began to feel sick and started down. Before he reached the bottom he collapsed. He lived to tell about it and will be more cautious next time.

To prevent gas attacks, Bickie advised running the silo blower several minutes before anyone enters the silo. Where a silo door is closed several feet above the silage level, he suggested lowering a lighted lantern into the silo before entering it. If the lantern goes out, DO NOT enter the silo, he warned. A victim of silo gas suffers from lack of oxygen. He should be moved into fresh air as soon as possible and artificial respiration applied. Send for a physician, but do not relax efforts to restore normal breathing, Bickie advised.

The 12th Ohio Classic Guernsey Sale and State Field Day will be held at The Fairgrounds in Delaware on Friday, July 2, according to The American Guernsey Cattle Club.

Both the sale and the field day program are sponsored by the Ohio Guernsey Breeders Association.

The field day program will get underway at 1 p. m., with the sale scheduled for 7 p. m. In charge of the afternoon program will be C. R. Juston, manager of Franchester Farms and president of the Ohio GBA.

French Government Falls Again But Citizens Just Remain Bored

By HAL BOYLE

PARIS (AP)—A man stepped into the hotel lounge and said quietly:

"The government has just fallen."

Perhaps there was frenzied excitement in French political circles over Premier Laniel's downfall, but the collapse of France's 19th postwar government created less stir in the hotel lounge than if a patron had risen and accidentally upset an ashtray.

The barman looked up impassively at the news, then bent down and finished mixing his drink without the slightest exchange of expression. It was as if he were an American League fan, and someone had just remarked a game in the National League had been rained out.

The American tourists in the lounge, including a number of former war correspondents, began talking animatedly about what the new government crisis meant. A few Frenchmen present listened curiously to the conversation. None volunteered a comment.

None said Laniel was a bum and deserved to topple. None protested he was a hero. None said he was a good man trying to carry out a bad program or a bad man stuck with a good program.

They had the half-bored, half-amused indifference of a group of Broadway characters at a night club casually eavesdropping on a table of Texans talking about how much Dallas needed a good hard rain.

A waiter came by. I ordered a drink and asked, "Have you heard the government has just fallen?"

"Yes."

"You don't seem at all surprised."

"No."

"You don't seem very concerned either. Doesn't it worry you that another French government has fallen?"

"Why should it?" he shrugged. "I worry about what concerns me. I take care of myself first, then the other fellow."

"Is that the way most Frenchmen feel?"

"I would say yes."

"Have most Frenchmen always felt that way?"

"Perhaps not," he said, after a moment of reflection. "But it is the way they have felt since the last war."

"Who would you like to see run the government of France, General DeGaulle?"

"No, not DeGaulle," he said. "But it is a matter of little moment to me. They are all out for the money. Me, I take care of myself first, too."

Later I asked an assistant manager of the hotel the same questions. He had much the same attitude as the waiter—that the government of France was hardly his personal problem, and he had his own life to worry about.

When I asked him what he thought of present French political leaders, he said, very seriously:

"They are all too small. France needs a stronger man."

"How about DeGaulle?"

"DeGaulle?" He looked pained.

"No, not DeGaulle. It is not necessary to be a general to be strong. France needs a strong man like Clemenceau—yes, another Clemenceau. But one does not meet many Clemenceaus in a lifetime, isn't it so?"

Out in the streets the normal traffic of Paris pulsed. The flower girls were peddling blooms as usual. The fruit stalls were busy. The only knots of people I saw were waiting for the bus to take them on the long voyage home, and they studied their newspapers in silence.

Along the Seine the season's first fishermen were patiently tossing lines into the stream, philosophically hoping to snare one of those overgrown minnows which is about all you ordinarily

As regards the ordinary criminal this would be correct if a Congressional subcommittee, at a hearing with one member constituting a quorum, could grant such immunity. But this is impossible under the McCarran Immunity Bill. The immunity can only be granted with the consent of the Attorney General or by a majority of the full Senate or the House of Representatives. Thus complete publicity is available; nothing can be done in secret or by corruption.

This Bill actually would make it possible for many ex-Communists and others who had made a record by a brush at subversion or espionage to "clear" themselves and to help their government without fear of personal involvement.

The real objection of the Guild is to the so-called informer. The word, informer, has an ugly connotation and when it is used, the intention is to humiliate. Has any citizen the right, in a time when our country is in peril, to refuse to give to his government whatever information he has?

Burke Asks More U.S. School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Burke (D-Ohio) has asked the Senate Labor Committee to act on his bill to extend the federal aid-to-school program in federal areas for two more years.

In a telegram to each committee member, Burke said he feared Secretary of Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby has indicated an "unenthusiastic attitude" about a permanent program.

The program is important to a number of communities in Ohio Burke said. He singled out Waverly, near the Ohio atomic plant, as badly needing federal money to expand school construction.
